THE RECENT MASSACHUSETTS FLOOD.

BURSTING OF THE BLUSH HOLLOW RESERVOIR.

Our despatches have already given an account of the disaster to the reservoir at Blush Hollow, Middlefield, owned by Sumner, C. Church & Brothers, which gave way, Sunday afternoon, between 1 and 5 o'clock. It was situated on Middlefield brook which empties into the west branch of Westfield River at Middlefield Switch. It covered nearly 100 acres, and was built about thirty years ago by Uriah Church, the father of the present owners, who started the business now carried on by his four sons. A Springfield correspondent of the Boston Globe thus describes the catastrophe:

The upper reservoir dam was simply an earth affair, and from Chester, a special to the Union says, that it was considered not altogether safe may be judged from the fact that people living in the immediate neighborhood have watched it with considerable care every time a hard or lengthy rain has occurred, and Deacon Harry Meacham, who lives only a quarter of a mile away, went down to view it about four o'clock. He had felt uneasy about it all day, he says, but when he arrived there the water appeared a considerable distance below the top, and he felt relieved. After looking about the spot for some time he was about to depart when taking a final look, he was struck almost speechless to see a large section of the earth wall slide out about forty feet from its position, beneath his very gaze. Recovering himself in an instant he comprehended the fearful situation, threw a bridle upon his horse and rode like mad in the direction of Blush Hollow, where the large reservoir is located. There were few people to alarm before the Hollow was reached, and he came riding into the little village in hot haste, bringing the news of the approach of the flood. Sumner Church and Oliver Blush were about the first people notified, and they although they doubted the story, dispatched a man down the Hollow toward Middlefield Switch, while Meacham rode up to the Centre and started the people there or the Hollow to render what aid they could. There was a general rush for the high ground, the people leaving their houses mostly with open doors; and in a few moments the waters had reached the large lower reservoir, and for a time poured over its top. There was hope that this would stand the pressure, and did so only for a time but finally the great flume near the easterly end of the great wall sank slowly, an instant, and then went down in the great whirl of waters, opening an aperture, sixty feet long and twenty feet deep, through which the great mass of water rushed with the speed of a whirlwind.

PROGRESS OF THE FLOOD—A GRAND AND FEARFUL SCENE—DETAILS OF THE DESTRUCTION

The dam at Church's factory held and the flood turned into the street, while a branch passed down in the rear of the buildings on the east side. The large house owned by the Churches and occupied by Joseph King was the first one struck, the water passing clear through the building and tearing out floors and windows; the furniture dropped into the cellar. Nearly opposite was a large house occupied by Alfred O. Brown. The flood struck this building upon one corner, cutting out the first story from the small house entirely, while the floor of the second story dropped down at one end, and but for a pile of debris, which lodged near it, the whole structure would undoubtedly have gone off. On the east side of the street an old barn, newly fitted, with a horse shed, corn house, and a building formerly occupied for a boarding house, but recently used for storage, were swept away, nothing remaining but a few broken boards. Just below this is what remains of Jerome Blush's house. One half the largest was torn off and destroyed, and the upright portion of it was turned around at a right angle. On the right of the street and about opposite Church's store, which is still standing, although badly soaked with water, a large building used for storing wool and containing many hundred pounds, and a horse shed attached, were crushed and swept out of sight. South of the store stands the remnant of Oliver Blush's barn, packed full of hay, the weight of which served as an anchor to the building, but did not prevent it from being completely split up and broken. On the opposite side of the stream was Oliver Blush's hall; it was three stories high and sat by itself by itself. When the flood struck the dam just north of it, that gave way, letting the main stream which was rushing down the street strike the mill, and it disappeared like an egg-shell. The mill had not been running for some time, but it contained ten sets of old style wooden machinery and part of the building was used for a grist mill. Opposite, on the left of the street, William Blush's new barn received the full force of the current, which had branched toward the east and south. It was a substantial structure and stood the test well, only a large wing used as a carriage house and containing several carriages being carried off.

A few steps further down stream was William Blush's carriage felloe and shaft manufactory, seventy by forty feet, with an L two stories high. This contained a good circular saw-mill and a large quantity of other valuable machinery. The waters fairly split this mill open at the bottom, the dam by the side of it going down in the general ruin, and the roof of the structure dropping in at the centre. Only the L, used for bending carriage work, was torn off, but the entire building will have to be pulled down. Church's old mill, some distance below, had a large portion of the underpinning torn out, and one of the abutments of the water-wheel was destroyed, but the building, with the four sets of machinery, is saved. This comprises the damage done at Blush Hollow, except to roads and bridges. The road-bed is now a rushing torrent. The highway between Blush Hollow and Middlefield Switch was entirely obliterated, and six bridges, two of them private ones, and four belonging to the town, were carried off. The report that the large new mill at the Churches was undermined proves unfounded, as does the rumor that some persons were missing. The bridges between the Hollow and the switch were cheap wooden affairs, but the road will be a hard one to rebuild. Like the road near Hayden'ville, it was built upon solid rock, and a new location will have to be taken, at a cost of $7000 to $10,000. Oliver Blush's loss will reach $10,000 and William Blush's about $15,000.—The Churches are yet unable to give any idea of the amount of damage they have sustained. The roar of the rushing stream is described as terrific in its loudness. The mountain fairly shook and trembled at the sound. The people of Brooklyn, N. Y., have formed an association, and entered into partnership with Mr. Berry of Gardiner, by which the most powerful monopoly in this country, known as the Knickerbocker Ice Company, will be broken down. It was found that every Blush tree house on the Hudson river and all the posts in the city were in the hands of this monopoly, and the agent of the Brooklyn Association went to Gardiner, where he found all the ice he needed and a prominent company will now furnish Brooklyn with ice at less than a cent and a half per pound.

Fraud Loves a Shining Mark.

A great medicine is always a target for fraud Shallow cheats, without the talent to originate anything useful, or the decency to permit an article of superior excellence to perform its mission, without striving to twist the fruit of honest genius by attempting to substitute trash in its place are now hanging on the skirts and counterfeiting Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular tonic and restorative in the civilized world A brood of local bitters, mixtures of damaged rum with worse liquor, has cropped out all over the country. Although the sales of these pernicious slops are too insignificant to affect the interests of a staple remedy, it seems a duty to warn the public against them. The color of the genuine article may be counterfeited, but its cures of dyspepsia, liver complaint, rheumatism, intermittent fever, constipation, nervous debility, &c cannot be imitated. jy10 1

CHICAGO SMITTEN AGAIN.

Less than three short years have elapsed since one-half of Chicago was laid in ashes, and the piteous appeals of a homeless population seem in the rush of time, to have hardly subsided, when we are called upon to chronicle another sweeping conflagration in this unfortunate city. The details of this latest calamity are quite fully given in our dispatches and it will be seen that, while the disaster does not reach the immense proportions of that of 1871, it is serious in its magnitude, and inflicts a heavy blow upon the community which was so rapidly recovering from its misfortune. The course and limits of the conflagration are given by telegraph with such information and estimates of losses as can be obtained in the midst of the natural excitement and confusion and from these we gather the rough approximation that the burned area comprises between sixty and seventy acres and that the losses will reach from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

A considerable portion of the burned district, was occupied by interior structures, but the better portion of the city shared in the devastation through which wind sending the flames toward the central part of the city. The rapid spread of the fire seems to have been due to the highly combustible character of the buildings near where it originated, the dwellings referring to hay barns and an oil factory as among the first to feed the flames, and the intensity of the heat can be inferred from the report that the men were driven away from three of the steamers, which were burned in the streets. The experience of 1871 naturally induced unusual alarm, and it is stated that the loss incurred by the removal of goods will prove exceedingly large. So far as yet reported, we learn of the loss of seven lives—those of three children, one woman and three firemen killed by falling walls. This is a sad, but only painful feature of the calamity but there is reason to be grateful that there are not more victims when many were suddenly exposed to great peril.

The following concise summary of the great fire which broke out on the 5th of October 1871 will be of interest at this time. In the twenty four hours that the fire raged in its fury, the flames had swept over an area of more than 1,000 acres, had destroyed nearly 18,000 human lives, reduced nearly 17,000 buildings to ashes, rendering 100,000 persons homeless, and had swept out of existence, in round figures, $200,000,000 worth of property. The correct statistics of the losses entailed will probably never be ascertained, so many records being destroyed and so many people being driven from the city and quickly suffering their loss. In the west division about 1,61 acres were burned over, the buildings burned numbering about 500, these being nearly all frame structures, and not of much value. About ... persons were rendered homeless in this division. In the south division, the burned area comprised about 4 acres and here were the great majority of the more expensive structures of the city. The number of buildings destroyed was about ... including hotel stores, 28 hotels, and manufacturing establishments. About ... persons were rendered homeless. In the north division the devastation was the most wide spread, fully 1179 acres being burned over. Thirteen thousand three hundred buildings were burned and 71,67 persons were deprived of shelter. The insurance on the destroyed property footed up ... companies paid about eighteen per cent. of the total value of the property destroyed whether insured or not. The value of the buildings burned was not so much fifty per cent of the whole value of buildings in the city—$9,000. The loss to the sufferers fully ascertained, but it is estimated that nearly two hundred per cent. has been lost during the frightful conflagration.

We notice that the Chicago papers are prompt in denouncing the blind policy that permitted the existence of such inflammable structures as those which invited the disaster, and it does seem that Chicago has not much the best use of the terrible lesson of the years ago. But this second disaster is not a pleasant for other cities to ponder, which they will do well to consider, and it certainly is another warning that a city of twenty thousand inhabitants without an adequate water supply cannot count on permanent immunity from such disasters as those which have stricken Chicago, Boston, Portland, Belfast and other cities in our and other states.

The Machias Union quotes the article of the proposed reciprocity treaty providing for reciprocal purchase and registry of vessels by citizens of Canada and the United States, and says remarks that it "would not receive favor from Maine ship-builders." It also credits Senator Hamlin with being mainly instrumental in preventing the ratification of the treaty "realizing probably the effect it would have on the ship-building interests of Maine." The editor of the Union is Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, but he is not willing to aid in destroying the revived shipping interests of the State.

Call are issued for the Penobscot county Democratic Convention to assemble in City Hall, Bangor, Tuesday forenoon, Aug. 11th, and for a Congressional Convention of the Fourth District, to be held in the same place in the afternoon of the same day.

THE GENEVA AWARD DISTRIBUTION. The Secretary of State has officially communicated to the Attorney General notice of the appointment of Messrs. Wells of Michigan, Porter of Pennsylvania, Baldwin of Iowa, Rayner of North Carolina, and Ryerson of New Jersey, as the Commission under the Geneva Award act, passed just before the close of the late session of Congress, to adjust the claims of the actual, undisputed losses by the devastations of the Alabama and other Rebel cruisers. The Secretary has also given notice that the Commission will assemble in Washington July 22, and the Attorney-General has set aside in the building of the Department of Justice a court-room and consultation-room, and other apartments for their use. It is expected that the Commission will at once organize, appoint a Secretary and clerks, and proceed to discharge their duties. It is said that the papers in most of the cases embraced by the act are already in shape for action.

REDEMPTION OF NATIONAL BANK NOTES. A Washington special says: "If any doubt remained as to the feature of the new finance bill, requiring National Banks to redeem their circulation in greenbacks through the Redemption Bureau of the United States Treasury, the practical workings of the bill would remove it. The redemption of National Bank notes is going on so rapidly that the whole available force of the Bureau is required to attend it. The receipts of National Bank notes for redemption amount to nearly $700,000 per day. The regulation of the Treasury Department that National Bank notes may be sent forward by any individual or bank for redemption without cost, and all expenses to be paid by the Department and charged to the bank that issues the notes, greatly stimulates the movement to forward them for redemption. There is also an impression that many of the interior banks are not in a situation to redeem their notes promptly, their loans, unlike those of the city banks, not being on call, and therefore not being in an immediately available shape. This leads many holders of them to embrace the opportunity of exchanging them free of cost for legal tenders. Should any bank be unable to redeem promptly, it is compelled to deposit of its United States bonds deposited with the Comptroller of the Currency, and thus retire its circulation. The net results of this general movement for the conversion of National bank notes into legal tenders is for the time being, at least, to produce considerable contraction."

THE BEECHER TILTON MYSTERY

The Boston Journal's New York correspondent, "Burleigh," writes as follows concerning the Beecher investigation

MRS. TILTON BEFORE THE COMMITTEE.

I wrote you in one of my earlier letters that Mr. Beecher has published nothing that he cannot vindicate. Also, that the so-called apology had no connection whatever with Tilton's family. This statement was copied into the New York and Brooklyn papers, with comments more creditable to my ingenuity than to any facts in the case. The testimony given by Mr. Tilton before the committee fully sustains the accuracy of your correspondent's statement. This lady, who has been so unfortunately and offensively connected with this matter, notified the committee, after its appointment, that she was ready to testify to any matters relating to herself and the pastor of Plymouth church, she volunteered her testimony. She met the committee at the house of a mutual friend and exonerated Mr. Beecher from the slightest shade of impropriety, and gave a full and emphatic denial to every scandal connected with the name of Henry Ward Beecher. Mrs Tilton would be believed anywhere. She is a small, lithe, energetic woman, of great decision of character and firmness. She is a devout Christian, carrying her religious views almost to excesses. In the Catholic church she would have been a religious recluse of the first order. She not only defends herself as just all impropriety, but also her lifelong pastor from the charge of ever stepping over the line of the strictest propriety.

THE RESULT

What the apology will amount to, where it will strike and what it will develop, is a secret that those who know best refuse to present to divulge. Persons who are supposed to be in the full confidence of Mr. Beecher and know the whole matter, tell me that there is no such letter in Mr. Beecher's handwriting as Mr. Tilton has published That Mr. Beecher authorized a friend to write a letter is admitted. The apology he never saw; and no such document bears his signature. This, it is said, the report of the committee will fully sustain. Another thing I believe is true The money quarrel between Tilton and Bowen was settled on the advice of a committee, of which Mr Claflin was chairman. The agreement was that the apology, all the papers touching the scandal, with certain articles that Mr. Tilton had in print, should be given up The apology, before it was handed over, was copied and certified to by one of the judges of the Supreme Court, and this certified copy is the article that Mr. Tilton retains. This is the exact state of the case as it now stands

A New York correspondent of the Boston Globe gives this version of the trouble

It is stated by Mr Beecher's friends that there is to be a funeral in this case, but that it will not be that of H W Beecher himself, but a different person His defence, it appears, amounts to this That Mr Tilton had been guilty of repeated indelicacies, most of which came to the knowledge of his wife; that she had been stung to madness by these indelicacies and his constantly manifested want of consideration for her; that in this excited state of mind she sought counsel of her pastor, Mr. Beecher, that the latter immediately took her side of the case, and urged her to procure a divorce from Theodore Tilton, that Mr. Beecher busied himself in the affair a great deal more than he should have done, and that subsequently learning from Tilton that some, at least, of Mrs. Tilton's charges were unfounded, he wrote that contrite letter to Mr. Tilton, a part of which the latter has so effectively used to put Mr Beecher in the attitude of a criminal suing for mercy, whereas he was simply expressing poignant sorrow for having imprudently interfered in a family quarrel.

President Grant has signed the bills repealing the usury laws and abolishing the "inborn contracts, and now for the first time the United States stand before the world with this source of corruption wiped out. Here after regular officers of Government will be held to a faithful enforcement of the revenue laws, without receiving an extra bribe. Good for Congress!—[Machias Union.

A serious accident occurred at Port Jefferson, L. I., Tuesday, at the launching of a vessel. It was found necessary to use a battering ram to knock the props away, and a large crowd assembled under it. When the last prop was knocked out the rope holding up the heavy timber used was cut, and it came down upon the heads of the spectators, killing four men and badly wounding many others.

The New York papers do not accord much favor to Tilton's persistent agitation of a scandal which he presents in a vague form calculated to enrich the reputation of his own wife. The Tribune of Tuesday says:

Mr Tilton publishes another letter. Without approaching the merits of the controversy which Mr. Tilton seems by some strange fatuity to rejoice in, we may say that this gentleman is as much too public and conspicuous as Mr. Beecher has by some been thought too retiscent and reticent in all this matter. Mr. Beecher once illustrated a political situation by a story which became classic, concerning a "Dog Niche." It was a reflection upon the taste which seems never to have been forgiven. Perhaps it was right he should be worried. And yet—and yet—isn't barking under his window a small revenge? Mr. Tilton is too vocal. He disturbs the public and furnishes no facts.

The World is even more vehement in protesting that the press have not been justified in demanding a reply from Mr. Beecher to assaults from such a source, and says:

Now, while the matter is all in doubt we beg our contemporaries to consider whether it seems to them altogether a "sublime" attitude thus to have challenged a pure, and unselfish, and a most industrious life to come and be weighed in the balance against the incoherencies of a pair of brawls, and whether their concurrent and unsolicited praise can do more or do less than embitter the foretold experience of public and private life, "Be thou a chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny."

Dr. SCHENCK'S

Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution.

Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is sometimes dangerous to give to all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must be great injury, for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium. It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, and at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays, June 10th and 24th, July 8th and 22d, and August 5th and 19th.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

NEW YORK CITY

DR. MCDONALD ON TWEED

Dr McDonald of Bellevue Hospital certifies that Tweed is a confirmed Morphine and Alcohol Inebriate, liable to apoplexy from lack of exercise, and he recommends comfortable quarters in an asylum.

A CLAIM SET UP TO AN INSANE ASYLUM

Inquiry into the insanity of Lizzie Cornelia Standard, was held to-day before a jury of inquest, Brooklyn. An application was made by her counsel of Dr Nichols of the Hamilton Insane Asylum, to have the patient discharged, on the ground that she had been confined there unjustly, and that her conduct was perfectly rational in the institution. Katie Standard made a eulogy with Judge Pierrepont to have a trial to remove the impressions of her guilt on the minds of her friends. The patient was then removed and will be examined to-morrow.

THE SCANDAL

THE RUMORS OF A COMPROMISE

It has leaked out that Tilton's wife has left her husband is confirmed. Tilton's friends are now trying to make out a case in the basis of a proposal made by Mr Beecher to the Investigating Committee that Beecher should set Tilton right before the world in the matter of the charges of adulteration of Plymouth church funds. Bacon and both parties then to be a compromise and further exposure of the scandal is difficulty to be prevented.

TILTON'S TREATMENT OF HIS WIFE

The Brooklyn Eagle says the Beecher Investigating Committee held another very long meeting last evening. It is known that evidence made by witnesses show that Tilton had, for a long time treated his wife in a manner little short of brutal. A member of the committee stated to day positively and with reservation that Beecher's demand for an investigation was false.

THE FUTURE OF FAITH

Inquiry had opened the most thorough and possible into the scandal. Mr Beecher and Mr Beecher were not acting in concert and was desirous of such a trial. Beecher was to close the last day and be impossible for him to continue the investigation on his game.

MR BEECHER'S POWER

He said, whatever there may be at the bottom of the scandal, and no matter how much it may be the facts, so far as the power of the Committee, shall be made to light.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

Brooklyn Argus says it is rumored at a meeting last night, each and every member of the committee declared that the case should not be compromised. They would insist on an investigation through and before the report is made, will take place possible to

BRING OUT FACTS

They will wait long enough to hear everybody who knows, or claims to know any facts bearing on the matter, and ready to testify. The statement was made today that the report that overtures for a compromise came from Mr. Beecher's friends is was incorrect. It is said the members of the committee are agreed that the first overtures of compromise was first broached by persons pertaining in the interest of Mr Tilton.

TILTON IN A TIGHT PLACE

A member of high standing in the community who has taken an active part both as a friend of Beecher and Tilton, said this afternoon that Mr Tilton is in a tight place and that if Beecher would not permit the subject of a compromise at this stage of affairs, and the committee have admitted the idea, they have already gone enough to convince them that Tilton has a weak case, and he is at present trying to avoid an issue.

NOT REPRESENTED

Tilton said to a Brooklyn Union reporter to day "I have tried for four years, using my last wit, which has proved small, in endeavoring to cloak and conceal the facts which now will be divulged. The responsibility of doubling them belongs not to me, for I would rather keep them buried. This responsibility belongs to Mr. Beecher, who has commissioned men of his own church to examine into the facts which they are made known, will put an end to a mother's misery show him to have been a fiend of criminality which the world little suspects, and that he has appealed to shield himself by putting forth a man's breast as the armor which was to ward the blow. For his compromise, I am nothing I shall accept none, it is a battle and death."

THE GENTLEMAN FROM BOSTON DENIES MAKING "OVERTURES"

Boston, July 15. James Redpath (who is the gentleman from Boston" referred to in the Associated Press despatch this morning as one that he brought overtures of settlement from Mr Beecher in order to effect a compromise, and explains the mystery of his appearance "at a very early hour" in "Mr Tilton's house" by the fact that he is the old time friend of both Mr and Mrs. Tilton, and is a frequent guest at their house, as he was in this occasion. He stayed with Tilton both before and after his visit to Beecher at Peekskill, whom he left Boston to visit on lecture business exclusively

CHOPS WITH COFFEE.

He says the only overture he made to Tilton at Parker's restaurant, in Willoughby street, was to urge him to take some chops with his coffee, and that, if there is anything derogatory to the character of any of the parties to this controversy in that suggestion, he is willing to bear the brunt of it.

SARATOGA

THE WEATHER—THE FRESHMEN BOAT RACE.

SARATOGA, July 15. The weather is very pleasant. No news of importance concerning the freshmen is developed. The start will not occur until four o'clock this afternoon. H. M. Hooper, No 4, of Trinity, is excused, and Mr. Buckley substituted. The Wesleyans went over the course yesterday afternoon in seventeen minutes. The Harvard's new shell has arrived. Cornell, in practice, made thirty-two strokes a minute easily, and the Yale freshmen forty-four.

THE TURF.

THE LONG BRANCH RACES.

LONG BRANCH, July 15. The trial purse of $600, one mile heats, was won by Galway by three lengths, Sallie Watson second and Minnie Mae third. Time, 1:46. The Ocean Hotel stakes of $1,000 for three-year-olds, mile and three-quarters, was won by Aaron Pennington, Brigand second, Acrobat third, Exile fourth. Time 3:16.

Chicago's Great Calamity!

SEVEN LIVES LOST!

Seventeen Hundred Buildings Burned!

TOTAL LOSS, $4,025,000!

A Second Fire Breaks Out

Twenty More Buildings Burned.

INSURANCE LOSSES, ETC., ETC.

THE LIMITS OF THE GREAT FIRE

CHICAGO, July 15—2 80 A. M. The limits of the fire are as follows On Clark street, No 935, which is about 12th street on the south and about Polk street on the north; on Dearborn street, the southern limit is near 12th street and the northern limit Polk street; on Wabash Avenue Harmon Court forms the southern boundary, the northern limit being between Jackson and Van Buren streets, on State street the southern limit is Harmon Court, the line extending on North nearly to Jackson street. Third and Fourth Avenues are burned nearly the whole length. A number of houses were burned on Michigan Avenue, but that street is not damaged to any great extent.

THE LOSS

is variously estimated, but cannot be given with accuracy. It will not be less than $4,000,000, and probably not over $6,000,000. About two fifths of this is covered by insurance, divided among numerous companies Since the great fire companies have been careful not to take large risks in one locality. Among the largest losses are the Jewish Synagogue, $30,000, Adelphi Theatre, $75,000, St. James Hotel and furniture, $150,000; Post Office, $40,000, First Baptist church, $10,000 Church of the Messiah, $25,000, Olivet Baptist church, (colored) $40,000 A number of

SERIOUS CASUALTIES

are reported and several persons are doubtless lost in the flames The fire is now completely under control and no further anxiety is felt for the safety of the property on the north side of the city

THE HOUSELESS

The centre of the negro population of Chicago has been swept out of existence. The streets in the new burnt district were very narrow, closely built and thickly settled. The number of unhoused is much less, however, than in the previous fire. The lake front park, between 12th street and the Exposition building again presents seen in October, 1871, of families with what furniture they could save. There are some sad cases, such as a mother mourning the loss of children whom she could not rescue Mr Scammon bet all he was worth after the fire of 1871 that the business quarter of Chicago would not shift itself at the corner of Harrison and Wabash streets. He lost his bet His stores have stood vacant ever since erected They were sold under mortgage, a few weeks ago, and the flames have now furnished a solution of Mr. Scammon's theories.

THE FIFTH SPECTACLE

THE FIRE TO CROSS MICHIGAN AVENUE,

one of the fashionable residence streets, only at a point between Congress and Harrison streets It destroyed, among others, the fine residence of Thomas Hayne and George A Walker

REVIEWING THE SITUATION

Our citizens are reviewing the situation this morning, and they congratulate themselves that they have escaped the destruction of the most important business portion of it, which was imminent at one time.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.

The fire originated in a low frame building used for storing rags and adjoining an oil factory, that stood between Fourth Avenue and Clark street, on Taylor street. There was a stiff sea breeze blowing, so that, by the time the flames had consumed small dwellings, stables, etc, and reached State street, where there were substantial business houses, they were

THE HEAT OF A FURNACE,

and all consuming in power. Fortunately, after burning up nearly twenty blocks and destroying the First Baptist Church and two other churches, the Post Office on Michigan avenue the St James Hotel, several elegant blocks erected after the fire of 1871, and a number of fine residences,

THE FLAMES WERE STAYED

right at the very doors of the heaviest business blocks and three or four of the best hotels The space burnt over is fifty-seven acres, and the number of buildings about 1700.

THE LOSS OF LIFE

is three children, one woman and three firemen, the loss of property about four and a half millions.

WHAT THE NEWSPAPERS SAY OF WOODEN BUILDINGS IN CITY LIMITS.

The Tribune says editorially, "Every cool-headed observer of the fire must have felt that we have paid a light penalty after allowing our magnificent business centre to be surrounded with wooden rookeries. We have come off cheap A great gilded martyr, around which fagots have been so profusely piled, has not yet been burned to death. Perhaps the small calamity will show us how to save it, perhaps not There are now some sixty acres of burned territory between the pigeon and the victim The gap may be the means of saving what is left. If so, let us thank God the predestined fate of every wooden building in a large city is to be burned some time. We have now offered up sixty acres of our combustibles as a sacrifice to the genius of fire institutions, meaning thereby the freedom of every man to keep a tinder box and an oil factory where it suits them best. Would that we could say this is the last of such mad folly. If not, Chicago still has thousands upon thousands of wooden shanties to feed future fires and go down

The Times and Inter Ocean both speak in strong terms of the folly of allowing wooden buildings within the city limits

THE TIMES ESTIMATES THE LOSS AT $4,025,000.

The Times makes the following estimate of the losses, which are found to be very nearly correct The area burned over partially covers fifteen squares, and is about half a mile long by a quarter wide. The loss is estimated on Clark st at $20,000, on Third avenue, $35,000; Fourth avenue, $175,000; State st., $1,000,000, Wabash avenue, $1,700,000., Michigan avenue, $150,000, Taylor st., $50,000; Polk st, $40,000; Harrison st., $30,000, Congress st, $75,000, Van Buren st., $60,000; Canal st, between Wabash avenue and State st, $150,000, making a total of $4,025,000.

LOSSES AMONG INSURANCE COMPANIES.

New York, July 15. The fire in Chicago last night has occasioned some heavy losses among the insurance companies in this city, but as a general rule the losses here are light as the damage occurred in a district where the rates of the companies were very high in consequence of the inflammable character of the buildings. The insurance officers generally consider the first accounts of the fire much exaggerated and believe that the small companies in New England and the West will be the greatest sufferers The following is a list of some of the

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN A NEW DISTRICT—EIGHTEEN BUILDINGS SUNDED — THE FLAMES STILL RAGING.

CINCINNATI, July 15, 4 30 P. M. The Chicago operators say that another fire has broken out on the west side. This is in a new district, separate from the fire of last night. The wind is high.

LATER

The fire commenced on the corner of Milwaukee avenue and Erie street, west side. Eighteen houses, principally wooden structures, are destroyed and the fire is still burning

SECOND FIRE REPORTED UNDER CONTROL

7 P. M It is reported from Chicago that the west side fire is under control.

TWENTY BUILDINGS BURNED.

8 P. M. Another fire broke out about 4 30 this afternoon in the northwestern part of the city, in the vicinity of the junction of Chicago and Milwaukee avenues. Fifteen or twenty buildings, comprising stores, saloons, planing and carpenter shops, were burned in a short time, the flames being fanned by a brisk northwest breeze and fed by every inflammable material. The fire department was promptly on the ground, and by the most vigorous efforts succeeded in before it did further damage than that already stated. Considerable excitement prevailed for a time and a repetition of the scenes of last night was feared. The fire originated in Dugan's smokel house in the rear of his establishment. Nearly an entire block was burned, but the buildings, were mostly of an inferior sort. One planing mill was destroyed with some valuable machinery and patterns; loss estimated at $60,000.

CHECKING THE PROGRESS OF THE FIRE

INCENDIARIES AT WORK.

During the progress of this fire two attempts at incendiarism in the same neighborhood were discovered and frustrated. In one case kerosene was used.

ANOTHER ALARM

was sounded from the corner of Wabash avenue and Madison street at six o'clock this evening, but the fire there was soon subdued.

Gen. Sherman" which was promptly on the ground, and they were speedily extinguished. The damage by fire was comparatively slight, that occasioned by the water will be readily repaired, and the house will suffer no interruption in its business. The proprietor and the manager, with their accustomed energy, had matters so far straightened yesterday morning that breakfast was on the table at the usual hour Great credit is due the fire company for their prompt and efficient action, and our correspondent says that veterans of a metropolitan company could not have worked with more coolness and skill.

State vs. David Clark; drunkenness; sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment in the county jail. Mittimus suspended during total abstinence.

The Democratic journals of Illinois are discussing the wisdom of calling a State Convention, and many of them are opposing any party action in the coming campaign. The Rock Island Argus, whose editor is a member of the Democratic State Committee, says there is no necessity for a convention, and remarks that "West of Ohio there is no such party in the field as the Democratic party," which is rather rough on the hopeful persons who are blowing the resurrection trumpets so loudly. The Argus says if the party held a convention it would be divided on the currency question, and if it should nominate a third ticket it would only secure the election of the Republican ticket.

The Maine Democracy have found an indorser, and enthusiastically announce the ratification of the Free Trade plank by—the Aroostook Pioneer!

Indian Agent Howarth of the Kiowa and Commanche Agency reports that the Kiowas are divided, Lone Wolf, leading one wing, is determined to join with the Cheyennes and Commanches, while Kicking Bird, Santanta, and some thirteen other chiefs have decided to remain peaceable near the Agency.

Dr. H. F. Townsend is now at the Bangor House for this week only, and from the numerous certificates he furnishes of the cure of patients afflicted with Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption and Scrofula, he must have been remarkably successful in his treatment of those diseases. His remedy is the use of Oxygenized Air, which is taken into the system above, through the lungs, thus purifying and invigorating the whole system. It would seem that such treatment would be far preferable to the constant and indiscriminate use of a variety of medicines, many of which injurious y affect the system. It would seem that such treatment could much to giving his remedy a trial. The Doctor is represented as prescribing daily for multitudes of patients in Providence, R. I. in which place he has his home office. Do not fail to read his paper entitled "Oxygenized Air." 2tw

SERENADE.

Sleep sweet, beloved one, sleep sweet!
Within here light is growing;
The dead leaf falls, the dark nights meet,
And a chill wind is blowing.
Strange shapes are stirring in the night
To the sad breeze wailing,
And, alas, with waning gleam of light,
The storm-tossed moon is sailing.

Sleep sweet, beloved one, sleep sweet!
Fold my white hands, my blossom!
Thy work time is thy lily blows,
Thy hands upon thy bosom.
Though evil thoughts may walk the dark,
No harm shall come, my chamber,
But dreams divine shall pass to mark
Singing to lute of amber.

Sleep sweet, beloved one, sleep sweet!
Though on thy bosom creeping,
God's hand is laid to find the best
Of thy soft heart in sleeping.
The brother angels, Sleep and Death,
Stoop by thy couch and eye thee,
And their stoops down to drink thy breath,
While Death goes softly by thee!
